The Mysterious Urge of Christmas

No matter how old and far out of the world's dust and confusion we are, not one of us can help but feel it. It is in the air! To feel the urge is a sign that we are not as dead as sometimes we think we are.

No one can fairly say, "I am done with Christmas" until none are left of kindred and neighbors to be made happier for a kindly thought.

Granting it to be true that there are ungrateful people in the world, it still remains possible for us to realize on Christmas morning a feeling that will speak out within us, saying, "I certainly feel better myself if no other does for having sent that Christmas token to that old relative or friend."

It will take not more than a half hour of time to select a Christmas Gift at Hartley's, for there never was a Christmas time when it was so easy to find suitable things, and so many of them, or such a large variety to choose from, as this season.

The store gets bigger in its knowledge of the world's productions, and in its courage to gather them for mutual advantage.

"THE QUAKER GIRL" TONIGHT.

Lovers of good music have a real treat in store for them when John F.
Stocum presents the musical success of three continents, "The Quaker Girl" at the Grand tonight. The book is by James T. Tanner, the lyrics by Adrian Ross and Percy Greenbank, and the music by Lionel Moncton.
This quartette of writers have furnished practically all of the George Edwards Gaiety successes.

"The Quaker Girl" from author of book and lyrics, the composer of its musical settings, the designers of its scenic investiture and costume embelishments, the director and maitred'Ballot down to the snug and elegantly fitting stage shoemaker, who fits the twinkling tootsies of a chorus of beauties that a New York critic characterizes as a "seminary of loyal-ness," are all masterminds in their respective professions and potted favorites of Noble Dame Fortune. The fate has smiled on them so often in the past, that they have grown to believe they are immune from her frowns.
